Jay Chou invites mysterious guest to join in online fun

Jay Chou participated in the newly launched social gaming platform – UCan.com 's press conference, of which he also plays the role of a shareholder. He commented that this establishment fulfills his dream of setting up a market where he can not only play games but also shop free of paparazzi's disturbance. The website will comprise of his very-own museum and virtual city, where his branded label and music products can be purchased. He also added that he would invite mysterious artists and friends to join in this channel and welcome users to take part in as well.
